The Bib Dress.
War: Shall He Croon?
Play with a Moral.
Lament in Russia.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 25—[illegible]en of Miami have introduced a new sort of dress called the "Miami bib," and all women of the nation should know about it.

[illegible]ap with a large bandana handkerchief brought down modestly over the chest and the other fastened in front of the baggy pantaloons. This answers the purpose of modesty, covering the upper part of the body, leaving the back and sides exposed to the beneficient rays.

[illegible]resses that imitate the Miami bib idea are regularly sold [illegible] throughout the day. The dress is only a bib above the waist. [illegible]a will spread, with warm weather.

[illegible] RUDY VALLEE, who [illegible]s emotions into the microphone, says President Hoover told him: "If I could sing a song that would make the people forget their troubles, he would give me a medal." Some one suggests a song [illegible]ing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee, Bring Back Prosperity." Many other suggestions are offered. But [illegible] than a song to make people forget their troubles" would be a song that would make people think about their troubles intelligently, understand them and work out of them.

Of 120,000,000 Americans a majority are quite ready to throw their troubles on the lap of somebody else, saying, "You take care of them."

Before the "troubles" end, many Americans will learn that they must solve their own problems, because nobody else is going to do it for them. And many, many Americans will discover in sorrow that work is a part of life, for which there is no permanent substitute.

THIS MORNING, girls big and little of Miss Harris' school on Brickwell avenue, in Miami, produced a musical play, with a moral. The big girls, as "lazy shepherds," that did not want to work took bars of gold from the old shoemaker that lived in a hollow tree. Fairies and gnomes took the bars of hidden gold away and the shepherds had to work harder than ever. That play would interest stock speculators.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS tells that Robert P. Lamont Jr., son of an American cabinet officer, reached Moscow yesterday, bringing to Russia one of the "ten-gallon hats" well known to our western country, and a plan for doubling Russia's supply of cattle, pigs and sheep within a short time.

Seventeen million cattle are to be changed to thirty-four million cattle, and so with pigs and sheep as rapidly as nature can do the work. Every farmer knows that it is not much of a task. Our own government made such experiments on a small scale, with one thousand reindeer planted in Alaska, changed suddenly to thirty thousand reindeer.

POLICE AND FIREMEN THREATEN WALKOUT

By The Associated Press

CAMPBELL, O., March 25—Officials of this steel making city today sought a purchaser for the city-owned waterworks in an effort to avert threatened wholesale resignation of its firemen and policemen, April 1.

Notice was served on city council last night by Chief of Police Frank Cunningham and Captain John Burke that unless arrangements were made to pay seven and one-half months back salaries and to provide pay for the rest of the year the police and firemen would quit after this month. Grocers who had been carrying them through [illegible] months have at last been forced to deny credit, they said.

SKULL WAS FRACTURED

Accident Occurs When Farmer Drives Machine Over Tracks of Erie.

Daniel Richard Williams, 57, farmer of near Meeker, was killed instantly yesterday afternoon when his automobile was struck by an Erie train at a crossing a mile north of Agosta.

Williams was on his way to the grain elevator at Agosta, members of his family said. His home is about two miles northwest of Meeker.

He drove his light sedan onto the tracks in the path of the eastbound local train No. 32. The engine threw the car to one side, breaking a railroad stop signal and hurling Williams into a ditch.

County Coroner Kenneth D Smith said that death was instant, caused by a fracture of the skull.

Several friends of the family witnessed the accident. Mr and Mrs Riley Dewitt of Agosta said that he waved to them as he passed them, and that when they turned around, he had driven onto the tracks.

Virgil Justice, an employe on the George Montgomery farm near Meeker, also witnessed the accident.

Williams was born in Union county on April 12, 1874, to Jesse and Hannah Brintlinger Williams both deceased. His wife, Mrs. Imo Pearl Davis Williams to whom he was married 38 years ago in Essex, died July 7, 1931.

RUSH WORK ON NEW TAX BILL

Sub-Committee Named To Draft Proposal To Raise 600 Millions.

CALLS FOR HEAVY EXCISE

Alternate Measure To Balance Budget Expected To Be Ready Monday.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—The house ways and means committee today appointed a sub-committee to draft proposals designed to bring in about $600,000,000 or revenue to replace the amount stricken out of the next tax yesterday when the house rejected the sales levy.

Acting Chairman Crisp announced after an executive session of the committee that it was hoped the sub-group would be able to lay the proposals before the full committee not later than Monday.

Ready for Recommendations

"The bridle is off, and the subcommittee can recommend anything it desires including items in the original Hoover-Mellon-Mills program," the Georgia Democrat said.

Representative Ragon, an Arkansas Democrat, was designated as the chairman.

After the executive meeting today, Crisp said:

"I have no spleen of bittterness but I want to try to get something to raise this enormous amount of revenue needed to balance the budget. I hope by Monday the sub-committee will have a concrete plan to submit to the full committee.

Crisp said he thought that with the defeat of the sales tax, the temper of the house would cool off rapidly.

He added that he thought that each item recommended as a substitute would be considered individually.

No proposition to send the entire bill back to the committee as desired by President Hoover would be considered, he explained.

Rush New Program

Stripped of its sales tax by overwhelming vote of the house, the one-time billion dollar revenue bill today was a mere hulk, but the defeated leaders rushed to repair the damage with an alternative program that still would balance the budget.

They fell back on the original treasury proposals for heavy excise on automobiles and radios; for a one-cent tax on gasoline; stamp taxes on checks and drafts, three-cent postage and similar levies.

WASHINGTON STIRRED BY KIDNAPING SCARE

Early Arrests Predicted After Series of Extortion Notes Are Received.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—A kidnap scare swept the capital today after police disclosed that extortion notes, accompanied by threats, had been received by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Sir Willmott Lewis the London Times correspondent, Ben Lyon of the movies, and others.

Police however predicted an early arrest. They were working on the theory one man was responsible for all of the threats, which involved promise of kidnaping Sir Wilmott's young son unless $1,500 were paid.

A police guard was placed at his home, and detectives also are watching Mrs. Longworth's. She was told to pay $1,500 but Pauline, her seven-year-old daughter, was not threatened directly. Definite instructions were received by her twice as to how to pay the money. An agent followed the instructions, driving slowly in a taxi by the chosen spot for depositing the amount, but the promised signal from the extortionist did not develop, and the affair fell through.

The Lewis case bothered police most as the threats have been direct and to the point, with two letters and a telephone call.

In the case of Ben Lyon, a note demanding $500 and threatening the safety of his child was received by him recently while at a local hotel with his wife, Bebe Daniels. The child was in California.

This note and several others, police believe, were the work of cranks. They could not disclose the [illegible]

COMPANY TO CLOSE MINES

Sunday Creek Co. Announces Shutdown During Time of Strike.

IN DISPUTE WITH STATE

Hits at O. N. G.; Will Not Protect Special Interests, Henderson Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The Ohio mines of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. will be abandoned for the duration of the Hocking Valley strike involving some 7,000 men.

Charging that the state had failed to provide protection following recent disorders, George K. Smith, president of the company, announced no further attempts would be made to reopen the mines until the strike is ended.

Smith said the situation was beyond the control of civil authorities and declared it would be "sheer folly to further risk lives and property" by attempting to operate the company's five mines, which normally employ more than 1,000 miners. He said other operators in the district probably would adopt a similar attitude.

Answering Smith, Adjutant General Henderson today declared that the Ohio National guard will be used to "restore and maintain order and to protect the guaranteed rights of all citizens, but not for the exclusive benefit of any interest or individual."

Governor George White refused to comment on Smith's declaration.

The adjutant general asserted Smith had given his promise to the governor that no strike breakers would be brought into the district, contending that he wished to give employment to his old employes.

Yesterday, however, Henderson declared, Smith asked him for protection in taking a load of machinery and employes into one of the mines. A detail of National guard officers was furnished to protect the truck, Henderson said, but that when it encountered some mine pickets, the pickets informed the National guard officers that two of the workmen on the truck were strike breakers.

CITY GETS 3 PROPOSALS FOR GARBAGE DEPT.

Only Two Are Considered as One Fails To Follow Specifications.

COUNCIL TO STUDY BIDS

Cincinnati Concern Makes High Offer for Equipment and Contract.

Three bids for the purchase of the city garbage collection department were opened by City Clerk S. H. Keller in the office of Mayor W. C. Phillians yesterday afternoon. The bids were opened in the presence of the board of control consisting of Mayor Phillians, Service Director Uncapher and Safety Director Emery M. Murphy, and representatives of the various firms submitting. The Teminal Service Co. of Cincinnati which offered $6,950 for the equipment of the department and $3,900 for a contract with the city for a period of three years, was the high bidder. A bid of $2,950 for the equipment with nothing offered for a contract was submitted by Joe Liberto & Son of Oakmont, Pa. A bid submitted by T. A. McKinstry of 627 north State street was not considered because it did not meet legal requirements, officials said.

It is expected the bids will be submitted to city council at its meeting Monday night for final disposition.

Would Pay Rent

Included in the $3,900 offered by the Cincinnati company for a contract and which would be paid on a basis of $100 a month, would be $75 a month as rental for the office and equipment of the department in the city hall.

Of the $6,950 that would be paid for the collection equipment, $5,000 would be paid in cash while the balance would be paid at the rate of $50 a month. The contract would also provide that the city continue to supply a suitable dumping ground for rubbish. The city at the present time is paying $150 a year for a place in which to dump rubbish. The garbage would continue to be taken to the hog farm operated by the Terminal company west of the city. The company at the present time is paying the city $50 a month for garbage hauled to the farm.

The company also agrees to make no change in either the 60 cents a month collection rate now

HEARING DATES SET FOR WET PROPOSAL

Senate Sub-Committee To Consider Modification Plans.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—Senator Blaine, Republican, Wis., today announced hearings would be opened April 14 by a senate judiciary sub-committee on proposals for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

There are half a score of measures pending proposing various prohibition changes. Lengthy hearings are in prospect but Blaine gave assurance that the committee would conclude in time to permit a senate vote.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee also gave consent to requests of the anti-prohibitionists for a report on the legislation to the senate. The report doubtless will be adverse, the prohibitionists claiming full command in the senate.

Blaine said the hearings will be deferred to April 14 because some of those desiring to testify wish two weeks notice.

Senator Bingham, Republican, of Conn., will seek action next week by the manufacturers committee on his bill to authorize four per cent. beer.

LINDY PASSES UP NEW CLUE

Information from Norfolk, Va., Citizens Classed as "Not Significant."

REPORT BABY ON YACHT

Police Now Looking for Third Man Besides Fleischer and Wagner.

By The Associated Press

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 25—Police at the Lindbergh home announced today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh himself had come to the conclusion that information brought by three citizens of Norfolk, Va., had "no specific significance" in the investigation of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

When Col H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, was first told yesterday of the report that the Norfolk men had information indicating the baby might be on a yacht in Chesapeake bay he said it was "absolutely untrue."

In his night bulletin from the Lindbergh home, where he is in general charge of the police search for the kidnapers, Schwarzkopf modified his statement. He said then that the Norfolk men had been investigated and found to have no "specific significance."

Spoke for Lindbergh

It was generally supposed that this was simply Schwarzkopf's own conclusion, but today the police chief announced that he had been speaking for Col Lindbergh, that Col Lindbergh had had the investigation made himself, and that Col. Lindbergh still believed the information from Virginia to have no "specific significance."

CAUSE UNKNOWN IN MAN'S DEATH NEAR DELAWARE

Dives 150 Feet in "Crash-Proof" Plane; Lives

By The Associated Press

GRASSE, France, March 25—A French inventor, Albert Sauvant, evaded police long enough to crack up purposely in his "crash-proof" airplane and was alive today to pronounce it a success.

Sauvant has long been trying to test his ship, which was modelled on a strange shock-absorbing theory but every time he tried to ride it into a nose dive, the police interfered to keep him from "committing suicide."

As if to show them it was all right, Sauvant made a model plane, and crashed it with a lamb inside. The lamb survived the ordeal, but even then the police demurred.

Sauvant insisted. The police removed the wings and landing gear on the premise that thus stripped an airplane is not an airplane.

But they did not reckon on Sauvant's determination. Yesterday he secretly took what remained of the plane to a cliff at Escragnolles, 18 miles from here, and had himself pushed off to the ground, 150 feet below.

The big fuselage dropped like a plummet and was demolished, but the 28-year-old Sauvant emerged smilingly from the debris, unhurt, and to his notion, vindicated in his five years of experimental work.

Coroner Discounts Theory That Lawyer Took Life.

CASE IS MYSTERY

Official Believes That Stray Bullet May Have Killed Attorney.

Cause of the death of Burton T. Benton, Delaware attorney, whose body was taken from the Olentangy river near Delaware Thursday afternoon, was enveloped in mystery this morning, with authorities questioning their own early statements regarding the case.

There were no fewer than three conflicting theories held by the investigators yesterday. The first theory was that Benton had walked into the river and shot himself. This was discounted by Coroner A. R. Callander, who yesterday afternoon stated his opinion that cerebral hemorrhage, following shock when hit by a stray bullet, caused death. A wound was found in Benton's left chest. The third theory, advanced late yesterday, was that Benton had not been wounded by a bullet, but that the wound had been inflicted by grappling hooks while searchers were dragging the river for his body.

Coroner Investigates

Coroner Callander this morning said that he has not satisfied himself regarding the cause of death. With the assistance of city and county authorities, he is making a thorough investigation today, he said. He hoped to report his findings early this afternoon.

When interviewed this morning, the coroner said that the investigation had not disclosed sufficient new facts to warrant a change in his statement that the death had been caused by hemorrhage following shock from the stray bullet.

Whether Benton was carrying a revolver, whether the wound in his chest was caused by a bullet, and whether the "bullet" was fired from a revolver or a rifle were among the questions the coroner hoped to be able to answer this afternoon.

Known circumstances surrounding the death, as reviewed by authorities today, are that Benton, Thursday morning, took a milk pail and started to walk to the Siegfried farm, a mile distant, for milk. This had been a morning habit for years, his relatives said. When he failed to return within three hours, his wife asked authorities to search for him.

Find Hat, Pail

Benton's hat and the milk pail were found along the Olentangy river just off the roadway along which Benton had been walking. His body was found in the river 100 yards below that point. There was no evidence of a struggle along the river bank. There were no powder burns on the victim's clothing and the coroner said that there was no water in his lungs.

Benton was secretary to Congressman Ralph D. Cole when Cole represented the Eighth district, was formerly prosecuting attorney and clerk of courts of Delaware county.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Asbury M. E. church in Delaware. Burial will be made in Oak Grove cemetery at Delaware.

Ohioan Ends 20-Year Reign of "Death Cactus"

By The Associated Press

LEBANON, O., March 25.—Oscar Connelly of King's Mills, near here, has lost a 20-year fight against superstition and has destroyed a cactus plant, the budding of which had thrice heralded the coming of death into the Connelly home.

Connelly and members of his family declare that the "death cactus" has bloomed three times—first in 1912—and that upon each occasion there was an almost immediate death in the family.

When it first bloomed in 1912, Oscar Connelly Jr., 21, was ill with typhoid fever. The unusual flowering of the plant, Connelly explained, served then to relieve to a degree the tension caused by the youth's illness.

The bloom withered in a few days, however, and dropped from the stalk, and almost immediately young Connelly died.

In 1927, Connelly avers, the plant bloomed for the second time. At that time, a daughter, Mrs. Mary McCullum, was ill in the house. The family recalled the first blooming, but attached no significance to this second unusual flowering.

Connelly relates, however, that in a few days the flower withered, and the death of Mrs. McCullum came almost simultaneously.

Even then Mr. and Mrs. Connelly refused to yield to superstition. They kept the plant, believing its blooming each time as death stalked into the home was merely incidental.

Last September, Mrs. Connelly became ill, and soon afterward, members of the family noticed a pale, lily-like flower on the cactus. When, at her request, the plant was brought for Mrs. Connelly to see, she hid her face at the sight of the flower. A few days later, she died—just as the wan little flower withered and dropped from the stalk.

Connelly kept the plant for several months, but gradually its presence unnerved him. Recently he took the plant from its pot and destroyed it.

Connelly said he did not recall how the cactus came into the family, but he related that a relative once told him it was a "death cactus" and that it bloomed only when death was near.

SEES DEPRESSION AS AID TO HEALTH

By United Press

ASHTABULA, O., March 25.—The depression has been beneficial to health, in the opinion of Miss Clara Fisher, superintendent of Ashtabula General hospital.

"There is less sickness during the present economic condition because people live more simply," she says. "People do not eat meat so extensively. They eat more fruits and vegetables. They are not so active as ordinarily and do not eat so heartily. All that has an effect upon their health.

Legion in the last few ... will be submitted to a vote ...ers of Bird-McGinnis Post ... Tuesday night, April 5, it was announced today by J. W. Llewellyn, post commander.

A secret ballot will be taken and forwarded to the state department, Llewellyn said. Posts throughout the state have been asked by Paul M. Herbert, state commander, to vote on the question.

Both the national and state departments of the Legion have frowned on any effort of the organization to ask congress for payment of the certificates in view of economic conditions. Approximately $2,000,000,000 would be required to meet the payments, were they voted by congress.

A year ago, congress loaned veterans up to 50 per cent of the value of their adjusted compensation certificates, this move placing approximately $200,000 in loans in Marion.

Miss Spring went out of her way, yesterday, to be agreeable, but the most of us would have been in a more gracious mood to meet her advances had her coming been slightly less robustious.

It is freely predicted that the $2,000,000,000 bonus bill will be passed by congress. Maybe this may explain why congress refuses to take action to balance the budget. It may be waiting until it has decided by how many billions more it wants to increase it.

Those "insurgent" miners over in Pennsylvania should be ashamed of themselves! The way they are acting is no way to treat the great exemplar of insurgency in the Keystone state gubernatorial chair, especially is this true at a time when he is so industriously seeking to lead the country into the belief that he is presidential timber.

The manager of his headquarters in Oklahoma City announces that Governor William H. Murray will make a series of addresses in this state next month. While hefe "Alfalfa Bill" might persuade General Coxey to become the caudal appendage of the Murray ticket. Talking about the picturesque, wouldn't a ticket like that come mighty near filling the bill?

The house committee on military affairs has approved the James bill, which provides that the $150,000,000 Muscle Shoals nitrate plant shall be leased for private operation or, if it can not be leased, that it be operated by the government. No matter which way the cat may jump, it's a cinch that the public is bound to lose.

Now the senate foreign relations committee takes the view that the recent letter of Secretary Stimson on the subject of the entrance of the United States into the World court served only to add to the confusion already surrounding the real meaning of the Root protocol, from which we take it that the foreign relations committee must be in an awful state of confusion—real or assumed.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler has announced his intention to introduce a bill for the authorization and organization of a corporation similar to the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make government loans to the farmers. Now why can not some legislative patriot introduce a bill for a corporation to make loans to industrialists, business and professional men, realtors, office help and store clerks, skilled and unskilled mechanics, and all the rest of the list and thus give all a chance at a good, easy thing?

The Dreamer's Delayed Recognition.

Dr. Gerhart Hauptman, one of the foremost of living playwrights, who is in this country for the Goethe centenary, repeated an old thought on his arrival. The world has gone far enough in technical development; there must be an awakening to cultural values.

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, the hundredth anniversary of whose death was marked with fitting ceremonies last Tuesday here and abroad, would have said the same thing. A half hundred other searching dreamers would have said it. And they, like Dr. Hauptman, would be talking into the wind. Deep and endless pondering produces prophecies and criticisms for which there can be no understanding audience until the world closes the gap between the mass mind and the scouts who run centuries before it.

Slowly, flatteringly, the world is catching up to Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, greatest of German poets. His was a more than twentieth century mind, produced by a rare combination of circumstance in the eighteenth century. Statesman as well as poet, scientist as well as dreamer, economist and social student too, he appears today as an advanced contemporary—another mockery to a proud world that forgets easily its debt to men it never saw, who lived in ages more concerned with the verities than the unsubstantial refinements of living.

Goethe foresaw democracy and sought to hasten its coming. He foresaw the industrial revolution; he anticipated the organic theory of evolution. He thought realistically, but acted idealistically, a relationship which enabled him to scale heights of thought explored by few other men in a world of countless millions. In his immortal Faust, he established a foundation on which every true thinker since his time has leaned. It is fitting that this nation, wrought from the wilderness in his time and never passing from his penetrating scrutiny, should give him at this time the recognition owing to a dreamer who prophesied and thought better than he himself possibly could have known.

Much Is Involved.

The granting of another stay to Al. Capone yesterday can hardly do other than intensify public disgust as a result of the law's delay in administering to the gangster the punishment to which he has been sentenced adds force to the statements of prominent citizens of Chicago regarding the disgraceful situation existing there and adds strength to their charges that there is a campaign afoot on the part of its underworld to gain control of all branches of the city government.

The United States circuit court of appeals yesterday denied Capone a rehearing of his appeal, but at the same time granted him a stay of mandate for the trip to the penitentiary, to which he was sentenced something like four months ago, to permit his attorneys to prosecute an appeal to the supreme court. This means that he will not be committed to the penitentiary for at least six weeks—if ever.

Coincident with the granting of the stay, word came from Washington of the receipt of a letter by Senator William E. Borah, as chairman of the sub-committee considering the nomination of Judge Wilkerson to the federal circuit court, from Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, in which the writer stated:

"It is my opinion based upon these facts and other indications that the combinations here now formed for getting men into public office turn very largely on the effort of the criminal organizations headed by Al. Capone to control sufficient of the elected public officials, party lines not cutting much figure, to get Capone freed from the penitentiary sentences hanging over his head, or secure reduction of the sentences."

Loesch, in his letter, went on to say that those who know the situation believe two-thirds of all labor unions in Chicago are controlled by or pay tribute to Capone's organizations, and he charged that two "personal adherents of Al. Capone" are members of the Illinois state senate.

Senator Borah having asked for evidence to support the charge of Loesch and Robert Isham Randolph, chairman of Chicago's "Secret Six," that "the undercover work of criminal organizations and organized criminals are making it appear that labor is opposed to Judge Wilkerson's confirmation," Loesch in his letter replied:

"I am not suggesting that there may not be union men honestly opposing Judge Wilkerson's confirmation, but I give it as my conviction that no matter what ground may be taken to defeat confirmation, if he fails of confirmation, such fact will be claimed by the criminal organizations as a victory for them and for Capone, and will have a prejudicial effect upon every law enforcing official seeking to curb the criminal career of Al. Capone."

If fault is to be found with the Loesch contention it is that he did not go far enough. He should have said that failure of the senate to confirm the Wilkerson nomination would afford encouragement not only to Capone, but also to the forces of crime throughout the land.

Much more depends on the senate's action in the Wilkerson nomination than the mere approval or disapproval of a nomination to fill a vacancy on the federal circuit bench.

According to a Detroit dispatch, investigators for the Wayne county grand jury report findings to show that a group of lawyers up there have been providing spurious heirs in probate court cases to seek estates. Whether the charge be true or false, it may be noted that there is never any scarcity of heirs when a decedent leaves no close of kin, and it is simply astonishing how quickly they get next to the fact that there is a "melon to be cut."

Robert Koch.

Great scientists are for great problems. That is why the President of the United States issued a proclamation calling on his countrymen to join in honoring the memory of Dr. Robert Koch, German scientist and physician who discovered the tuberculosis germ March 24, 1882—fifty years ago yesterday.

Dr. Koch was undoubtedly one of the greatest bacteriologists who ever lived. He was an explorer in the still relatively unknown universe that can be poised on the point of a pin. His weapons were microscope lenses, slides and chemicals. In a lifetime of hard work he discovered more things about microscopic life and erected more guideposts for those who would follow him than any other single individual. His lay admirers need not understand his accomplishments in detail to understand why they should respect him. It is necessary for them to know only that he was the first man to isolate the bacillus of tuberculosis and identify it as the specific organism of that dread malady. Without him, it might have been years before another made the discovery. The world might have lost millions who could have been saved by even the scanty knowledge that Robert Koch made available.

It is one of his deep regrets that he discovered only the cause of the disease. Though he assured himself by patient endeavor that salts of certain metals killed the germ, hopes for a positive cure were frustrated by the fact that human tissue was affected unfavorably by them. In the manner characteristic of great humanitarians in science, he wanted to clear up the problem he had disclosed.

The closing sentence in President Hoover's proclamation may well stand for the nation: "Because of his priceless contributions to human welfare, it is fitting that we, as a nation, do Robert Koch honor, and that each community acknowledge its debt to him by commemorating in an appropriate manner the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his discovery of the tubercle bacillus."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt has written to a member of the senate that her forty years of experience as a suffrage leader has led her to fear that the proposed membership of the United States in the World court is now "being moved gently along toward the shelf that has received so many good causes when a presidential election approaches." Pshaw, Carrie! You certainly didn't need experience of forty years to discover that! Why, you might have guessed that without even waiting to straighten your hat or use your lipstick.

GLASS HOUSES.

The ancient warning given those dwelling in glass houses not to throw stones is likely to lose much of its significance in the near future. People soon may be living in just such structures and may be doing so without the shatter menace implied by the old saying. The glass houses that in time may become as familiar as frame, tile or stucco structure, will be built with the new glass-bricks that are now being developed by the nation's largest glass manufacturing concern. The company's research department is studying a small house built entirely of the novel material and several large oil companies have been interested in experiments in filling station construction from the same product.

These bricks are of two types, each to a varying extent translucent. Solid glass bricks let in less light, where as the hollow bricks, similar to hollow tile, let in much more natural illumination. The bricks are being tested in various colors so that much charm and variety may be added to home or store interiors by having the light rays pass through glass of different hues and tints. These colors may be solid or in mixtures and plainly the novelty will open a new world of possibilities for architectural imagination.

Glass bricks also will be made available for roofing purposes, so that daytime darkness will be banished, the amount of transmitted light to be easily governable by the degree of opacity worked into the various grades and colors of the materials employed. The same tinted glass, familiar to the optical trade, that gives soothing light in tinted spectacle lenses may give us bright rooms without harming the optic nerves.

The novelty also opens new ways to apply artificial illumination or indirect lighting that may be installed anywhere within walls, ceilings and even floors constructed of the crystalline material. There is indeed literally no limit to the many and various possibilities of the new glass construction, modified only by the question of cost of the material. These experiments are being carried on in a special plant in Columbus, Ohio.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

CRIME FICTION.

If criminals in real life showed one-half the ingenuity of those in the detective stories, the law-abiding portion of the human race would by this time be virtually extinct. Fortunately the diabolic devices for taking life and concealing the manner of it exist for the most part in the minds of the fiction writers, and as they can always see the beginning from the end, they do not have to try out their inventions on living subjects. The only fatalities from this kind of horror story come from the rejection slips of the magazine editors.

It is interesting to learn from Carolyn Wells, expert on murder fiction, that the public taste is turning back to the plain, old-fashioned forms of murder, like shooting and stabbing. Poisoned bugs, venomous spiders, poison-tipped arrows, infernal machines and the like are no longer popular with the better type of fictitious murderers, which will be a relief to a nervous public which has come to dread going to bed of nights.

The best detective stories have depended less on the horror of the crimes committed than on the ingenuity revealed by the detectives who unraveled them. The secret is in making the crime, whether it be murder or something else, appear inexplicable to the reader. The solution may be quite simple; in fact, the simpler it is the more spectacular is the denouncement. The very obvious dagger, thrust in the ceiling in plain sight, heightened the dramatic effect of "The Thirteenth Chair," after the audience for three acts had been led through a series of mysterious blind alleys.

The difference between crimes in fiction and those in real life is that in the former the obvious and probable explanation is never correct, while in the latter it usually is. Some day somebody will write a crime story about a man who has apparently come to his death through some very simple accident. The surprise will be that it really was an accident.—Knickerbocker Press.

Many Needless Deaths.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A recent newspaper report tells a dreadful story of fourteen persons overcome by coal fumes or gas, escaping from a defective flue. A disaster such as this is a frequent occurrence in cold weather.

I want to warn all my readers of the great dangers associated with gas poisoning. Coal gas contains a poisonous element known as carbon monoxide. When this gas is inhaled serious effects result. Carbon monoxide is one of the most deadly of gas poisons. It combines with the blood and produces dangerous changes.

This poison is found in illuminating gas. It is liberated by the incomplete combustion of gasoline in the automobile. It is found in furnace gas, natural gas and in coal mines.

The effects of the gas are rapid. The victim falls into a deep sleep and does not awaken unless energetic measures are taken. If rescued after a short exposure to the deadly gas, complete recovery is possible. If deep sleep has persisted very long, recovery is doubtful.

Expert attention is necessary in the treatment of this condition. Call a physician immediately, and in the meantime do not move the patient, as this is dangerous and may cause serious damage. Contrary to a common belief, walking is harmful to the patient, since any exertion may damage the heart permanently. The afflicted person should be kept warm with blankets, and the air in the room should be fresh, but not cold.

If the victim is not breathing, artificial respiration is essential, since inhalation of oxygen and carbon dioxide is necessary to save these cases. If the carbon dioxide can not be obtained, oxygen alone may be sufficient; but best results are obtained by alternating the oxygen with carbon dioxide.

Most cases of carbon monoxide poisoning could have been prevented if proper care had been taken. All leaky gas jets and gas pipes, and any imperfect flues or old stoves should be repaired.

Remember especially that this gas is liberated in the exhaust of your car, and never tinker or for any reason remain in a closed garage with a motor that is running.

I have come in professional or official contact with many of these cases. The pity about all of them was that they might have been prevented.

The most frequent source of danger is a cracked piece of tubing, leading from the gas fixture to the heater. I beg of you to take no chances by using old and rotten tubing.

Cannibalism Still Exists.

BY RALPH HEINZEN

Paris, March 25—U.P.—In this twentieth century of progress, cannibalism is still practiced within a twenty-four hour airplane flight of Paris and London.

M. Jean Perrigault, French colonial voyager and author, just returned from the upper Volta and the confines of Liberia, declared that French colonial administrators have resorted to executions in an effort to stamp out the last vestiges of African cannibalism.

Cannibalism is not so much a question of food with these tribes as it is a religious ritual. French administrators hope to end it by converting the witch-doctors and priests to the idea that human flesh is not food.

"Little girls are the favorite morsels among the Volta cannibals, but they will eat little boys if there is a shortage of girls," M. Perrigault said.

"One tribe of the upper Volta, the Senoufos, are different from other cannibals in that they eat only dead children. They send buyers out to the neighboring tribes and buy ailing children. These they take home and pen up until they die.

"Cannibalism exists among the tribes of the Liberian frontier, in Guinea and the Ivory coast, but official suppression is so severe that the rituals are now carried on almost in secrecy. Two days before my arrival among the Dans tribesmen, M. Paul Vazeilles and M. Philippe Develay, of the colonial subdivisions of Danane, had ordered the execution of two cannibals, Koue Toba, fifty-five, and Do, forty-eight.

"Do, one of the most famous of witch-doctors, defied the French colonial troops and declared that their bullets would not kill him because he had 'fetiche' power over their guns. Twelve Senegalese riflemen lined up and shot at Do. Two bullets entered his body, killing him.

"The French administrators had taken the precaution to place two Mohammedan Sengalese along with ten 'fetiche' troops. The Mohammedans took steady aim, the others fired wild. The news of the execution spread over the forest.

"Among the Gueres, the wildest cannibals of the African forests, it is the women, more than the male witch-doctors, who keep up the tradition."

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, March 25—All this talk about America's open door policy toward China, first enunciated by John Hay and restated the other day by Secretary Stimson in a letter to Senator Borah, can be traced back to a little known American diplomat of another day.

William Woodville Rockhill, now dead, was the real inspiration for this policy.

Old-timers around the state department still remember Rockhill.

Early in his life he had gone to China as a student interpreter. His travels throughout the remote parts of the empire, his studies of conditions, gave him perhaps as complete an understanding of China's problems as that of any American.

* * *

He was secretary of the American legation in Peking for a while, and later was appointed minister to China.

During the Boxer rebellion in 1900 he served as America's special commissioner, and the next year represented the United States at the Peking congress called to settle foreign claims growing out of the rebellion.

Rockhill's experience was available to Hay, secretary of state, when the future of the Far East and its importance to the United States as a market, was at stake.

Secretary Hay felt as Rockhill did. Both were impressed that the Pacific was the ocean of the future for Americans and vigorously opposed plans to partition China among the foreign powers after the Boxer rebellion.

* * *

Secretary Hay refused to accept any Chinese territory for the United States in settlement of claims for damages in the Boxer rebellion and was instrumental in having China's indemnities to this country repaid to China for the use of schools.

With Rockhill's assistance and inspiration, Hay started what is now known as the open door policy. Charles Evans Hughes reinstated it when he was secretary of state. Secretary Stimson's letter to Senator Borah carries on the tradition.

Dinner Stories.

"Are you prepared for the Easter parade?" asked one lady in office.

"Haven't thought about it," answered the other. "This threat of wage reduction has kept me thinking about the Easter pay raid."

The Missionary—"And do you find any signs of the natives of these islands becoming civilized?"

The Explorer—"Oh, rather! They don't eat missionaries now, they hold them for ransom."

* * *

Teacher—"What is the feminine of bachelor, Tommy?"

Tommy—"Please, miss, a lady-in-waiting."

* * *

Lily, the colored maid, went to her mistress one morning and said:

"Here's mah life insurance policy, ma'am. Won't you please keep it for me?"

"But, Lily," said her mistress, "you're getting married, so why not ask your husband to take care of your policy?"

"Huh!" said Lily, "does yo' think Ah wants a stranger to know Ahs got mah life insured?"

* * *

"Why are you and your little sister always quarreling?"

"I don't know, dad; unless she takes after mother and I take after you."

* * *

Leap year also has its disadvantages for the fair sex, as illustrated in Passing Show:

He—"Georgina, will you marry me?"

She—"Ask me again next year. I don't want people thinking I proposed to you."

MARION MAN ON TAX BODY

H. N. Cookston Made Member of Committee of Ohio League.

H. N. Cookston of Prospect was made a member of a legislative committee of the Ohio Taxpayers' conservative league when the league met at Hotel Southern in Columbus yesterday to complete its organization and plan future activities.

The league went on record opposing any increase in taxes on realty as urged by the special session of the legislature called for March 29 by Governor White. It also favored a special legislative committee including Cookston, to work with the special session to obtain any increase in realty taxes if imposed.

Plans for extending the league's membership into every county in the state were made. Representatives of 18 counties were present yesterday. They volunteered to solicit counties not yet solicited for membership, and were assigned to those areas. A report on this work will be made at the next meeting of the league, probably early in April.

An effort will be made to increase the membership of the league in this county. It now has 50 Marion county members.

H. N. Cookston, M. J. Morral of the city of Marion, G. M. Teitelbaugh also of here, and Dr. F. F. Field of Waldo Becker represented Marion county in yesterday's meeting.

WHITE HEARS C. OF C. PLAN

Suggested Program for Special Session Submitted to Governor.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The Ohio chamber of commerce today presented to Governor George White a seven-point proposed program for the special session of the general assembly, which convenes next Tuesday.

The points included these suggestions: It is the opinion of the chamber that care of the poor and unemployed is a duty inherently devolving upon each local community and that direct state aid from state revenues should not be used for these purposes

It is the conclusion of the chamber that it is not necessary in this emergency for the general assembly to provide increases in the gross amount of taxes, but instead the chamber urges further economy in state, county and local governments.

The chamber believes that local taxing districts should be authorized to borrow for poor relief purposes any inactive funds, except sinking funds, that they may have on hand. In this connection, the chamber has in mind funds held by the local district from gasoline and automobile license fees. The chamber is not in favor of permanent diversion of such funds.

Governor White said he would take the program under consideration, but members of the committee, after their conference with the executive expressed the belief the governor would not deviate from his original plans.

Members of the chamber committee which met with the governor included John L. Graham, Lancaster banker, Mark W. Selby of Portsmouth, and H. H. Squire of Sandusky.

REFUSES TO LEAVE ALASKA BY PLANE

By The Associated Press

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 25—Choosing the overland route by dog team rather than the air, Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, Philadelphia society woman, who is gathering material for a book, today awaited the pleasure of the elements and Mike Cooney, veteran dog musher, before starting the 200 mile trip from Kantishna to Nenana.

Mrs. Biddle went to visit one of the north's famous characters, Fanny Quigley, on the upper tributary of the Kantishna river January 12, and was forced to remain more than two months because of snow and poor trails.

Yesterday she refused the luxury of a two-hour flight on a mail plane from her winter prison, preferring instead at least five days on the trail with a dog team.

MINES ABANDONED BY OHIO COMPANY

Sunday Creek Co. Announces Shutdown During Time of Strike.

Creek announcement word came from Bellaire last night that bituminous miners of eastern Ohio and West Virginia would seek a nationwide coal strike unless their wage demands are met by April 1. At a mass meeting the miners voted to invite operators of the Cambridge and Hocking Valleys to meet with their leaders for discussion of a new wage scale.

Unless agreement is reached, a strike will be called in Ohio and West Virginia and national officers of the United Mine Workers will be asked to call a general strike.

100 Resume Work

The developments in the Hocking Valley-Sunday Creek and eastern Ohio coal fields were followed today by the reopening of a mine in the Pomeroy bend field. One hundred miners went to work in the Syracuse pits of the Stalter-Essex Co. near Pomeroy. A large crowd of union sympathizers gathered at the mine mouth as the men went to work and while there was some shouting and "catcalling" there was no violence.

The Hocking Valley strike started Feb. 1 when the operators announced a reduced wage scale of $3 a day for laborers and 38 cents a ton for loaders. Spasmodic disorders followed the walkout and Governor George White threatened the district with martial law last Sunday when a spur bridge was dynamited and several mine officials were stoned.

Use Peaceful Methods

Since then, however, the strikers have limited their activities mostly to peaceful picketing and state officials decided against the immediate use of troops.

Hundreds of pickets assembled in the millfield area again last night, their camp fires dotting the hillsides about the Sunday Creek No. 6 mine. There was no disorder, although the strikers became restless when a National guard truck arrived at the mine with radio apparatus.

150 EAGLES ATTEND DELAWARE MEETING

One hundred and fifty members of the local order of Eagles including the lodge band, attended a social meeting of the Delaware lodge there last night. The meeting was one of a series being held by the lodges of the district, leading up to the district initiation in Shelby April 8.

A committee from the local lodge is expected to go to Mt. Vernon Sunday where final plans for the district initiation will be made. The initiation will be one of a series of 10 that are being held in the state.

OLD TUNNEL FOUND UNDER BANK VAULT

By International News Service

TUCSON, Ariz.—A tunnel under the main street of this city, leading to the walls of a bank's vault, has been discovered by Paul E. Fernald, city engineer. The underground chamber dates to 75 years ago when Tucson was the only walled city in the Southwest.

The tunnel, according to pioneers, was dug up by the first United States soldiers to take possession of this city under the Gadsen purchase. It was to provide a secret refuge for the inhabitants in case the little settlement should capitulate to a wild Apache Indian raid

The tunnel came so near the vault that it would have taken a thief only a few hours to have dug through.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an intenal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Henney & Cooper invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?—Adv.

TAX FIGHT ENTERS POLITICAL PICTURE

Effect on Garner Candidacy Is Subject of Conjecture at Washington.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—While the political headlines busily record the steady growth of delegate support behind Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, events elsewhere also are writing important history in both political parties.

For the Democrats, and particularly for the presidential aspirations of Speaker John N. Garner, the tax battle in the house has taken on political aspects of extraordinary significance. Among the Republicans, a major under-surface agtiation centers about new demands from both sides with respect to prohibition.

Garner's supporters have presented the record of his house leadership as outstanding proof of his availability for the presidency. Now his espousal of the sales tax has been accompanied by at least temporary loss of control, and by political reverberations far exceeding expectations.

Future Problematical

What will be the ultimate effect on his chances among the voters? The speaker's friends declare he will not suffer greatly in the long run. The making of a tax bill is a long process. It still is possible the Garner leadership may regain, by some sudden stroke, much of the prestige it unquestionably has lost during the last week.

Georgia's sweeping indorsement of Roosevelt at Wednesday's primary is a barometer of disputed reliability in his coming test of strength with Garner, who was brought into the picture by those convinced he was best qualified to head off the fast-moving Roosevelt boom. In Georgia, Garner was entered only by proxy and by a proxy without oustanding popularity in the state. The result was about what both sides expected.

A more clear-cut test—and probably the first—will be furnished by the Nebraska primary on April 12, in which Roosevelt, Garner and "Alfalfa Bill" Murray all are entered.

Roosevelt now has definitely-recorded pledges of 85 delegates out of the 700 odd he needs. He is sure to pick up a great many more during the coming month, and most estimates of his first ballot strength range from 500 upward.

Hoover Nomination Forecast

President Hoover, virtually alone in the Republican race, picked up the Iowa delegation of 25 during the week, and now has 91 delegates instructed, pledged or claimed for him. Few dispute that by the end of April enough to nominate will be in the bag.

The Republican troubles relate rather to the platform—and to some degree to the vice presidency. Two months ago it was conceded generally that the ticket again would be Hoover and Curtis. Now some party leaders are urging that second place be given to the eastern seaboard, and to an opponent of the dry laws.

Vice President Curtis has many friends, and the movement against him has not yet clearly developed.

Has New Plan

The Oakmont, Pa., concern in addition to offering $2,950 in cash for the equipment would agree to continue paying the $150 a year rental for the dumping ground. The firm also gave the city the assurance that in event there should be any interruption of the present plan of hauling the garbage to the hog farm, it would erect an incinerator for the purpose of burning the garbage

It is possible a plan now in use by the company at Oakmont, would be inaugurated here, one of the representatives of the company said yesterday. An incinerator plant built by the company at that city is being used to burn garbage gathered from several of the surrounding towns.

The McKinstry bid, which was held illegal, offered $4,725 for the equipment and $300 for a contract with the city. This offer was smaller than that of the Cincinnati concern. It also included an offer of $30 a month as rental for the office of the department in the city hall and $25 a month for the use of the city barns on Owens street. He also offered to pay the yearly rental for the dumping grounds.

The equipment now in use by the department and which would be sold includes 11 horses, a tractor, six trailers, a truck and a quantity of harness and smaller equipment.

PEACE CONFEREES MEET DIFFICULTIES

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, March 25 Sino-Japanese peace negotiations lagged perceptibly today, while armies of the two nations engaged in sniping and skirmishing a few miles outside Shanghai.

Each blamed the other for a clash between outposts near Kating, and neither had an official explanation of sniping between troops in the vicinity of Chiawangmiao, incidents which added to the general uneasiness.

The delegates—Chinese, Japanese and neutrals alike—emerged from a three-hour session of peace negotiations with weariness written on their faces, although the official communique noted, as usual, "some progress was made"

"They visited Col. Lindbergh and gave him information which on investigation was found to have no specific significance in this investigation

"There is no positive evidence of any kind indicating that the kidnapers fled by way of the Delaware river or Chesapeake bay. The coast guard along Chesapeake bay has made no report to these headquarters."

Although he made no mention of this in his formal bulletin Schwarzkopf told reporters that police were now looking for a third man besides Harry Fleischer and Abie Wagner, whom he has referred to as "known kidnapers." He refused to disclose the identity of the third man sought.

ANCIENT MASONIC RITUAL PRESERVED

By United Press

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—The rites of the Ahiman Rezaon of Masonry and a sermon dedicated to George Washington are printed in a volume of Masonic ritual published in 1782 and now a valued heirloom held by Mrs. Ethel Reichard, here

The book, its pages discolored and dried by the years, was the property of Robert Carr Wilson, the owner's greatgrandfather, and was presented him when he became a member of Masonic Lodge No 2, Philadelphia, second oldest in the United States.

Washington was a member of the Alexandria, Va., Lodge, No. 1, the oldest.

The sermon, printed after the ritual, was delivered by Rev. Smith in Christ church, Philadelphia, on Dec. 20, 1779, in the presence of Washington.

A scrawl on the flyleaf bears the name of "Benj. Meredith," but there is no explanation of its significance.

TOLL OF SOUTHERN TORNADO NOW 362

By The Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 25—The gravity of the south's tornado aftermath became more apparent today as field workers for relief forces discovered additional dead, injured and homeless.

Today the total known dead stood at 362 divided between Alabama with 299, Georgia with 40, Tennessee with 18, South Carolina with three, and Kentucky with two.

Unofficial estimates placed the number of injured above 3,000 and the homeless at 8,500. Property damage estimates ranged from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Body Still Missing.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., March 25 — Nearly five days have elapsed since a Transcontinental Western Airways plane crashed in the Ohio river near here, but today the body of one of the two victims was still missing. Swift currents have contrived against divers in their efforts to search the river for the body of Dr. Carol S. Cole, St. Louis woman physician, who perished early Monday with Pilot Hal George of Columbus.

SPEED CONSTRUCTION OF NEW REVENUE BILL

House Leaders Fall Back on Original Treasury Plan To Raise Revenue.

Acting chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee, sought to turn the job over to someone else after the revolters had smashed his bill but a resounding ovation from the entire house membership compelled him to carry on.

Need 600 Millions

The new taxes will have to produce nearly $600,000,000 to take the place of the general sales tax and to re-establish financial stability for the government. Several of the proposals offered in the treasury program are expected to meet a hard fight but leaders of the forces which defeated the sales tax joined in calling for a balanced budget.

From callers at the White House came word that President Hoover, deeply disturbed at the 223 to 153 defeat given the sales tax, believed the bill should be entirely rewritten rather than undergo a patching-up process on the floor

"Victory for People"

The stupenduous victory of combined Democratic and Republican groups which refused to follow the regular leaders, was called a victory "for the common people" by their spokesmen. LaGuardia, Republican of New York, Doughton, Democrat of North Carolina, and Rankin, Democrat of Mississippi.

"Now we have won our victory against the principle of a sales tax," said LaGuardia, "we should cooperate with the committee in selecting sources for taxation to balance the budget."

But he promised no wholesale acceptance of the treasury program and probably will seek to supplant portions of it with plans of his own, including a tax on stock exchange transactions.

A sensation in the finale of the sale tax rout was the desertion of the cause by Representative Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic chairman of the appropriations committee, who went so far as to advocate abandoning for the present any idea of budget-balancing His post is that of "watchdog of the treasury," and he heads the special committee on economy which hopes to reorganize the government executive agencies to effect big savings.

GANG "ENFORCER" BACK FROM PEN

Frank Nitti Leaves Leavenworth; Reported in Line To Succeed Capone.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO March 25—Frank Nitti, reputed "enforcer" of "Scarface Al" Capone's crime commands, returned home from the Leavenworth penitentiary today to haunts that rumble of his nomination to the command of the Capone syndicate.

The federal government has exacted 15 months of his freedom for dodging income tax collectors and he is at liberty again, but his chief, Capone, and Jake Guzik, the syndicate's business manager, have similar debts that remain to be squared.

Guzik was given a week's stay yesterday before going to the Leavenworth penitentiary to serve a five year term and Capone has been granted a 30-day extension during which he will remain in the county jail pending his appeal to the supreme court from a conviction that brought him an 11-year sentence.

With Sam Guzik, another of the Capone chieftains, serving the rest of his year's term at Leavenworth and Al Capone's younger brother, Ralph, out of the way at McNeil's island, in Puget Sound, Nitti, it was rumored in gangland, succeeds to leadership.

MORE GIVEN JOBS IN DRIVE

Precinct Workers Finish, but Campaign Will Be Continued by Committees.

Incomplete returns from precinct workers, who finished their work yesterday afternoon, set the new total of hours pledged in Marion's citywide job drive at 65,809 this morning. A final report on the efforts of the precinct workers was expected late today.

Special committees will press the drive further, it was announced at the Marion chamber of commerce office this morning. Representatives of the Marion "At Work" Civic committee, which sponsored the drive, will meet with members of the Farm bureau in an effort to place unemployed men on farms. Other committees will take up other phases of the drive in an effort to boost the pledges well past the 100,000-hour mark, the goal.

So far as could be learned this morning, the precinct workers interviewed 95 per cent of their possible prospects during their 10-day part of the drive which ended last night, F. O. Tuttle, representative of the American Legion, said.

Tuttle, who has been in charge of the drive headquarters, this morning said that one woman had been permanently placed in a farm home doing housework. Negotiations were under way this morning to place a single unemployed man in a farm home to work in exchange for his room and board.

Eighty-six hours of temporary labor were furnished unemployed men yesterday. Much work pledged during the drive awaits spring weather.

One man originally assigned to a three-hour job more than a week ago, this morning finished his seventh day of work for the same employer.

It was estimated at headquarters that between 800 and 1,000 extra work hours, not pledged in the drive, have been provided by merchants by increasing their forces for the pre-Easter sales period.

UNEMPLOYED GROUP TO NAME DELEGATES

To Send Representatives to Meeting of State Legislature Tuesday.

Members of the Marion Council of the Unemployed are scheduled to meet tonight at 7:30 at 688 north State street to ratify the names of this city's 10 delegates to a group of 1,000 to be sent to Columbus next Tuesday when Governor White's special session of the legislature convenes to consider relief measures.

The group of 1,000 will be made up of delegates of unemployed groups in cities throughout Ohio, according to C. B. Cowan of Cleveland, field representative of the Ohio Council of the Unemployed, who was in Marion today. This city's delegates will represent the local council and the workers' organizations of Marion.

Cowan tonight will discuss the governor's relief proposals and will tell what relief the 1,000 delegates will seek.

This city's 10 delegates were tentatively selected at a meeting of the local Council of the Unemployed last night.

REVIVAL SERVICES TO CONTINUE HERE

The revival meetings at the First Pilgrim Holiness church will continue another week, Rev. F. W Cox, pastor, said today. Nearly 200 persons have answered the altar call in the three weeks in which the meeting has been in progress.

Rev. W. H. Lockwood, evangelist, preached last night on the things the people of the earth have lost through the fall of Eden, mentioning the forfeating of Eden, the mental suffering and physical defects, "and some we will never get back until the resurrection."

Rev. Canfield Prepares Last Holy Week Sermon

...last week on earth is dis... the sermonette given this ... Rev. G. G. Canfield of ... Church of the Brethren ... pertains especially, ... the day of His suffer... is the last of a holy ... series.

Rev. Mr. Canfield will have an... communion services at his ... tonight at 7:30. The service is one that is sacred to the members of the Church of the Brethren, as it is carried out as nearly as possible with the account in the 13th chapter of John.

Rev. H. H. Maxwell will preach on Jesus' crucifixion tonight at Grace Evangelical church and Rev W. Martell George will discuss the last day in his sermon tonight at Wesley M. E. church. Rev. Paul H. Bourquin of Salem Evangelical church conducted Good Friday services today and Rev. Mr. Dodd of Central Christian church urged his congregation to attend the Good Friday union services at Calvary Evangelical church. The five ministers have exchanged pulpits each night this week.

Sermon for Day

Rev. Mr. Canfield's sermonette follows:

"Jesus had lived the whole of His life in the prospect of death, and now the time had come when it was to be fulfilled. His teaching pertaining to the Kingdom had been given. His chosen followers were as nearly ready for His departure as they would likely be until this next demonstration of His divinity and sonship should be made.

"His agony in the garden of prayer, prepared Him to meet the torture of the approaching mob. No resistance was made. His part of the world's great need was to do what the Father had sent Him to do, 'Die for the sins of the whole world.' The mind of the world has never known what that meant. The mob came with instruments of war, even to take one that was giving Himself up to die.

"Having been taken prisoner, (betrayed by a traitor using the symbol of love) He was now before the panting enemies, who were bringing false accusation because their hearts were not in accord with the purpose of their creation. The entire morning from midnight on was spent in shifting Him about because of their desire to shift responsibility.

"Jesus' suffering was more than physical when some of His own followers were untrue to Him. As severe as it was, He went through with it, and we are glad He did, and we are praising Him for it, for that is the only hope of our salvation.

Find No Crime

"Mocked, hated, lied about, scburged, spit upon, given a crown of thorns, crucified was He but in every case of official trial they could find no crime in Him. It is the same story from generation to generation that the good is being destroyed by the evil. Nations, and society can stand that only for a comparatively short time until the power over all will step in and demand a change.

"A new dispensation came with the birth of Christ, sealed for eternity in the death and resurrection of the Son of God. Darkness upon the face of the earth called folks to account and was one of the many ways that the Creator has proven by physical means that His will must be recognised. The coming of the holy spirit after His resurrection is the spiritual means of determining His will and carrying it out.

"Thus Jesus went to the cross to pay the debt of the world, the debt that could never have been paid by man himself. The meaning of this can never be ascertained until one becomes spiritually deserned. And this desernment comes only upon the open confession that 'this is the Christ the Son of the living God.' And that He brought from heaven a saving gospel. When such faith is manifest man will renounce the devil, his enemy, and all his powers, and cleave to Christ who is 'able to keep and to save that which I have committed unto Him against that day.'

"He has instructed us to partake of such sacred emblems as 'His broken body and shed blood' and by so doing we 'proclaim His death till He comes'."

To Conduct Service.

Rev. Emil I. Kotz, district superintendent of the Ohio District of the Central German conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold Good Friday services at 7:30 p. m. at the Prospect Street M. E. church. He will administer the Lord's supper. Following the communion service he will hold the third quarterly conference of the church.

RIVER JETTY REPAIRED

ASTORIA, Ore.—Sixty carloads of rock daily will be passing through Astoria for the next few months. Some 700,000 tons of huge basalt boulders, blasted out of a mountainside on the Columbia river, will be used to repair the south jetty at the river mouth. Ultimately this will be increased to 2,000,000 tons, according to federal engineers' plans.

Teleprinting equipment with which persons can send messages that are received in writing over telephone wires or cables through exchanges has been developed in England.

Will Go to France.

BUCYRUS, March 28—Carl Ley local violinist with the Aeolian ensemble, will leave Monday for New York city from where he will sail soon for Alsace Lorraine where he has accepted a position as English correspondent for his cousin Arthur Del Medico, European representative of a Los Angeles chemical corporation. Mr. Ley expects to further his musical education at the Conservatory of Leipsic.

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

Her Constipation Overcome by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation when it is said to 'relieve constipation.'

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down and out—and after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat." — Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Chemist Finds Gas Use Is Not Great Menace to Cities in War

NEW YORK — Use of gas in the next war will not result in the deaths of any great number of civilians in large cities, according to Dr. Harrison E. Howe, editor of "Industrial and Chemical Engineering," issued by the American Chemical society.

Because of its limited ability to produce death or serious injury, the most deadly gas now available for war use can only be employed for "psychological" effects on the populations of great cities, Dr. Howe asserts.

"Mustard gas," he said, "which from many points of view is still the most effective chemical weapon, is always given exaggerated potentialities in popular narratives.

"The facts are that, during the last war, it took two tons of mustard gas to produce one death and one ton to produce 29 casualties. These figures are based on the combined data of all the nations engaged in the war.

"We are told that a ton of mustard gas would destroy the whole city of New York. That could be possible if as much as twenty milligrams of the compound were injected into the lungs of each individual.

"Now consider the machine gun. A machine gun bullet would kill three men if they were standing back to chest. A machine gun can fire 600 bullets a minute, and therefore could kill 1,800 such men per minute.

"A few machine guns in 24 hours could wipe out the population of New York City, providing of course, the citizens were obliging enough to march by in rows. The destruction of the population by mustard gas is just as fanciful.

Dr. Howe pointed out that with modern improved gas masks firemen with hoses could keep streets and low roofs clear of gas in even the largest cities.

"The population on the upper floors of houses and in apartment buildings with doors and windows closed would find themselves well protected," he said.

"It is not so easy to destroy with gas in the open field as it is upon city streets and roofs, and aside from a possible psychological advantage nothing appears to be gained by wasting expensive chemicals and risking aircraft over protected cities. High explosives are better for such work."

BOWL of HEALTHFUL CRISPNESS

AREN'T you tired of the heavy, hot dishes of winter, just as you are of overcoats and mufflers? Put away the woolens and add a touch of crispness and variety to breakfast by serving Kellogg's Rice Krispies.

These crunchy bubbles of rice are as crisp as a spring morning. They actually crackle in milk or cream. All the nourishing goodness of toasted rice. Rich in energy—readily digested.

One of the best cereals for children. They love to hear Kellogg's Rice Krispies snap and pop in the milk or cream. Watch them eat! Fine for the nursery supper.

Brighten breakfast tomorrow with this "different" cereal. Even cold weather, nowadays, doesn't require an old-fashioned heavy, hot breakfast. For we live in warm houses, ride in closed automobiles. We even dress differently.

Then why not eat accordingly? Rice Krispies are economical, convenient, healthful. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

BESSIE LOVE IN GOOD PICTURE AT OHIO

A girl who believed it was her duty to sacrifice everything—happiness, her reputation and even love—upon the altar of family devotion but who in the end receives her reward, is the story of "Morals for Women" which opened at the Ohio last night to continue through Saturday.

Bessie Love as Helen Hutson, the girl, and Conway Tearle as the rich man, carry the leads and are supported by a cast which includes John Holland, Natalie Moorhead, Emma Dunn and Edmund Breese.

Strictly modern in its theme, the picture tells the story of a girl who has slipped from the path of virtue, literally forced there by the economic demands of her family. She tries to escape when she finds real love, but family burdens again send her back to her butterfly life from which she is finally rescued by the return of a childhood sweetheart. The picture is well acted, the photography good. The picture is a good evening's entertainment.

A Penrod comedy, another episode of the Rin-Tin-Tin serial and a news reel are also included in the program.

A Tom Tyler western picture, "Single-Handed Sanders," opened today at the state to show through Saturday. In the cast are Margaret Morris, former Wampas baby star, Robert Manning, G. D. Woods and John Elliott.

Excavating the remains of pre-Columbian Indians on a tiny island off the coast of Florida was Manning's job when he was a promising archaeologist with the Smithsonian institute before he began his picture career.

FLASHES OF LIFE

By The Associated Press

Here are two pig tales:

TOPEKA — People who worry about pigs' tails can start worrying immediately. Farmer John Jolley reports sadly that the recent cold spell nipped the tails of the little squealers.

GIBBSTOWN, N. J.—A pig owner hereabouts has been annoyed by pig thieves. To enable himself to recognize his stolen porkers hereafter he is painting the pig tails green. His name is neither McCarthy, OShaughneasey or Reilly. It is, oddly, Evangelista.

• • •

CHICAGO — The Chicago Motor club has figured it out that a woman drives a motorcar five times more safely than a man. However, every one may have his own opinion.

• • •

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Arthur La Rose loved to tune in western stations at 4 a. m. Mrs. La Rose, suing for separation, called this cruel and abusive. The court agreed with her.

• • •

CANBERRA, Australia — Head hunting is passing. The administrator of Papua says only about 60,000 of the 300,000 inhabitants of Papua still go in for the pastime.

• • •

HOLLYWOOD — What is duck soup to the other fellow is a pain in the Klieg lights to Harold Lloyd. After some one stole four ducks the comedian bought for a picture, Lloyd bought four more, and had them insured for $10,000.

How Do Sportswomen Manage?

Cup winners can't be quitters. The woman in any field of sport must take her sporting chance with Nature. Any strenuous match may bring on her monthly sickness. But there need be no pain! Midol always meets this emergency, as all active women should know. It will block periodic pain for hours.

And Midol is as harmless as the aspirin that stops your headaches. (It is non-narcotic.) If you want your next monthly period to begin and end without even a moment's discomfort, just ask for Midol at any drug store. Tuck the little box in your purse and be ready.

THINKS DEPRESSION IS "EXAGGERATED"

Case of "Keeping Wolf from Garage," Bishop Hughes Says.

By The Associated Press

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 25 - Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church believes the depression is grossly exaggerated in the minds of the public.

"Conditions may be described generally," the bishop said, in an address here last night, "as doing without what our fathers and mothers never had. It is not so much a matter of keeping the wolf from the home, but keeping the wolf from the garage.'

"The task today," he continued, "is to subdue the prophets of gloom and tears." He said the predicament in which many persons found themselves was their own fault, caused by speculation in bad stocks and overpurchase of farm lands.

ed by Carol's desertion.

"No, I don't like his looks." And Kitty was thinking of Carol, of Carol's face as it had looked when she left the table. Carol had said she had nothing she wanted. Did she want Paul Somerset? And if she did there was Marge to reckon with; Gar had laughed over the way Marge was giving this fellow a rush.

The old alien feeling swept over Kitty, for Marge and Carol, all of them, and then almost at once it left her. Why, now she had escaped them—she'd found firm ground for her feet to tread.

"I think I'll let you take charge of the displays after this," Miss Lee was saying.

The next Sunday, Kitty, leaving the house for breakfast, paused on the top step to draw in a long breath of the sun-warmed air.

Usually on Sunday she met David at the corner restaurant to eat breakfast with him: to daily over the meal, talking to him, to drink a second and often a third cup of coffee stood off the emptiness of the long day. Now she found him waiting at the table which they called theirs by right of usage

He rose quickly to greet her. The concern with which he always met her took note of her lighter step, a little glow on her face, a softening of the too-set lines about her mouth.

"Did you ever know such a day?" she asked gayly as she eased herself in the chair he drew out for her. "I wish I had wings—I'd fly to a hilltop I know back home!" Her whole heart was, childishly, in her voice.

David smiled at her as if she were a child. "We can go, without wings. Not to your particular hilltop, but to one that's particularly mine, if it'll do."

"David! You mean to your little house?"

"Yes. There's a bus that goes within a half mile. Will you mind walking?"

"Oh, I'll love it. What a darling you are to think of it, to know how much I'm longing to see real country again. Can we take a picnic lunch? Can be start at once?"

"And you say you're grown up!"

"I feel young today. It's—but I'm not going to tell you, now. I'm going to save it. Oh, David—I'm happy again. Did you guess when you saw me?" He nodded. He'd seen that she was happy; perhaps she'd heard from Gar. But he didn't want to know, just now.

"You'd better eat some breakfast. Then we'll go around to your room and get an extra wrap. It may turn cold before night; this warmth is only one of the weatherman's jokes."

"Might not Dorcas like to go?" she asked after a moment, but with such lack of enthusiasm that she had to explain, laughing: "I'm selfish this morning. I want this fun just for the two of us. If Dorcas went I couldn't tell you things—"

She was so wholly intent on having David to herself that she did not see the sudden swift kindling in his eyes. She went on, smiling fondly at him. "David, you can't half guess what it means to me to have you. You're so—so listening! You're even better than a brother. I think my heart would have broken with everything shut up in it." She put out her hand impulsively and closed it over David's, where his lay on the table, thumb tight over his fingers. "David, you're dear!"

He moved his hand out from hers.

"Don't give me too much of the brother role—I've never learned that part. I might fall down on the lines, Kitty. Have you finished? We won't bother with a lunch—we'll find something out there. And we won't take Dorcas along." He had gotten up and was standing behind her chair, her coat in his hands. He smiled down at the top of her head. "This will be our day, if you want it so."

They boarded an interurban bus at the end of Ketchum street. It took them through the city, on past the suburban bungalows hanging like a heavy fringe to the city-limits, on to open fields and farm houses and barns. Kitty's excitement was like a child's.

"Look, David! Those willows. Couldn't you think it was spring?—David, see those ridiculous geese!—David, why haven't we done this every Sunday?"

They left the bus at a cross-road and followed it where it wound through brown orchards up over a hill. Kitty matched her stride to David's free swing. She took off her hat and carried it, and the softly stirring air roughened her hair and brought a higher color to her cheeks. Her chin was lifted, her eyes were going hungrily ahead to the edge of the hilltop.

They paused before they started down into the further valley. David pointed to housetops, a white church spire, visible among the tree-tops in the distance.

"That's White's Corners. It's a mile beyond my place. It's named for my mother's people. Most of them are buried there. At one time my great grandfather owned a good part of the valley. There's a mill the other side of those woods—it's gone to pieces now—" A new quality in his voice brought Kitty's eyes to his face. It was alight with a strong pride.

They walked on down the hill and at its bottom turned into a narrow road that ran off at a sharp angle. And almost at once David said: "Here we are."

It was a low-built, gray clapboarded house, old but with no dreariness or neglect in its age. It had no look of deserting, rather one of waiting. Kitty remembered what David had said of it a—place that puts arms around you.

David unlocked the door and stood aside for her to enter, an odd smile on his face. Kitty found herself in a low ceiled living-room, clean, fresh curtained, furnished so much like her mother's living-room in Bridgewater that she gave a little cry of delight.

"Why, David, I could believe I was home; That old sofa—I know it's ours. Is one leg wobbly? And George and Martha Washington! And the clock!" She began to laugh, and then her laugh broke off sharply. "O, David, it's so good just to see things that look like—home. I didn't know—"

He left her and went on to the kitchen beyond, opened doors and windows. When she followed him her gay mood had come back but her blue eyes were misty, as if they they had shed tears.

David was taking cans down from a cupboard.

"Soup. I've a tin of crackers somewhere. Corned beef, apple sauce, coffee—"

"But, David, we can't eat now! I must see every corner of the house and the brook and the hill David, how beautifully clean you keep everything."

"Not me—Mrs. Dundy does that. She's my neighbor. Wait a minute—" He went to the open door and whistled. At once there was a shrill barking, and presently through the woods came bounding a collie dog. The animal leaped on David, whimpering in his joy, licking David's hands and face.

"Jan, this is Kitty."

The dog greeted Kitty with more dignity, simply nuzzling her outstretched hand returning at once to the adoring of his master.

"I've had him since he was a puppy," David explained. "The Dundys keep him for me." He was holding the dog's head close to his shoulder. "Jan, old fellow, have you missed me as much as that?"

Jan went with them while they explored the house. Narrow steps led to the sleeping chambers above, small rooms, with sloping ceilings and narrow, small-paned windows.

"This was my mother's room—when she was a girl," David said on the threshold of one. Kitty made no move to enter. She saw the books, the pictures, the little blue glass lamp on the table at the window, the low rocking-chair beside it, the gay, piece-work quilt folded at the foot of the narrow wooden bed.

She slipped her hand through David's arm. "David, I wish you'd tell me about her, sometime," she said softly.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Gives Madge Something to Ponder Over, as He Departs for Town at the Urgent Summons of Edith Fairfax.

IF I HAD NOT BEEN an experienced driver, my wheel certainly would have swerved at Lillian's query, so much did it startle me. Mechanically, I slowed the car down as I answered her.

"I never once thought of Edith when planning the dinner dance," I said. "What do you suppose——"

"No harm done," she interrupted. "You haven't invited anybody yet, unless—did you talk over the guests with Dicky?"

"Yes, I did, and never once mentioned her name. What must Dicky have thought?"

The worry in my voice was genuine. I had no reason for desiring Edith Fairfax's presence at my dinner dance. Indeed, I knew that the function would be much pleasanter without her, but not for words would I have had Dicky think I did not intend to invite her. He had been wonderfully magnanimous concerning my work on the play with Philip Veritzen, and I knew that he was making a mighty effort to control his jealously of Hugh Grantland. It was distinctly not the moment to ignore Edith, his associate in conducting an art magazine, as well as an old family friend.

At the Farmhouse

"Perhaps he didn't think anything," Lillian's voice held a mirthful note.

"What do you mean?"

"If your colossal memory failed, do you think Dicky's was functioning any better? He never remembered any commission in his life without tying a string around his finger."

"He wouldn't forget a slight to Ede," I said, with mournful conviction.

"Not if she came into his mind, and he thought you intended the slight."

"Oh! I hope so," I said, putting my foot on the accelerator.

"All right," Lillian said resignedly, putting her hand ostentatiously upon the car door." Go ahead, and kill us both speeding. See if I care!"

I laughed and modified my pace a bit, but it was only a few minutes before I was back in the farmhouse and searching for Dicky. I found him in his room throwing things into a bag, while another specially-made case that he uses to carry drawings stood locked and strapped nearby. That he was in bad humor I saw as I opened the door, and as he looked up he said crossly.

"Of all the naggers!"

I looked at him in offended surprise for an instant, then turned away. Dicky grabbed my arm just outside the door.

A Summons from Edith

"Don't be an idiot! I didn't mean you. Come back in here," he shouted, and I hurriedly complied fearing some one would hear him.

"It's Ede," he said, infinite annoyance in his voice. "She has Simon Legree licked to a frazzle, that dame. She's been grouching all summer about my spending so much time out here, giving the general impression that she did all the work while I lounged at my ease in pastures green; and now nothing will do but I must go up for some fool stunt she has planned, bringing these drawings with me.

"I wasn't going to do it, but she wore me out. I finally said 'yes' to shut off the sound of her yack. Hell's bells! What must it be to be married to a woman like that? I pity her husband, if she ever gets one."

I will not deny that his words were music to my ears. I was suddenly glad that I had the excuse of the omitted invitation to keep me from making any other comment upon his little tirade.

"Some way, I gather," I said with a little smile, "that this is an unpropitious time to tell you that I had completely forgotten Ede in making out my dinner list."

He stared at me for an instant then grinned reluctantly.

"I thought you looked guilty over something when you came in," he said. "Did you, by any chance have the idea in your noodle that I'd be sure if you didn't invite her? What you do about that lady is of supreme indifference to me."

I knew that his annoyance was adding exaggeration to his speech and that he would have resented the omission at any other time, but, woman-like, I hugged the words to my heart.

"That Depends On You"

"I'll telephone her this afternoon," I said, trying to make my voice casual.

"Don't! She'll get some fool notion into that mass of jelly she calls her brain that I've put you up to it as a sort of peace offering. I'll mention to her casually, some time after I get there, that you have to give this affair for the Arleys Friday night, and hope she'll be free. I'll say you're telephoning her later. Then you can call her tomorrow."

"All right, but are you going to be gone long?"

He hesitated oddly. "That depends on you," he said at last.

NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT MAKING BIG HIT

Grocers Say Housewives Welcome Many Improvements in Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit.

Local grocers have pronounced the new Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit one of the most up-to-date food products on the market. It offers many outstanding and popular features. For one thing, the biscuits are toasted a golden brown on both top and bottom—not just one side.

The new Kellogg biscuit is also baked in a more convenient, economical size. Two biscuits just fit the cereal bowl—and you get 15 to the package instead of a dozen.

Mothers will especially be interested in the fact that every package is certified for food value by the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia. These new biscuits are considered a splendid food for both adults and children. With either hot or cold milk, you achieve a well-balanced amount of vitamins, minerals, proteins and carbohydrates.

The Kellogg Company uses a special process of "pressure-cooking" which retains all the food value of the whole wheat and makes it very easy to digest. At the same time it develops delicious flavor.

These improved biscuits can be identified by the name, Kellogg's, and the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Macks Favored To Take Pennant

NEW YORK LOOMS AS CHIEF OBSTACLE IN PATH OF ATHLETICS

Washington Has Outside Chance of Coming; Cleveland Defenses Too Weak.

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 25—Faith in the New York Yankees, hope in the Washington Senators and a charitable belief in the potency of precedent may combine to make things tough for the Philadelphia Athletics in this year's American league pennant race.

Even so, it is extremely difficult to figure just how Connie Mack's formidable cast can be stopped from making it four in a row, and a league record.

So long as the A's have Grove, Earnshaw, Walberg, Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx, they cannot be regarded otherwise than as strong favorites again to win the American league flag. They have the punch to slug it out with any rival

Same Team Four Years

Mack is the only American league manager who has ever held a championship combination virtually intact for more than three seasons. He made few changes in the outfit that won four out of five pennants from 1910 to 1914. In the past three years Mack has made only one alteration in the regular lineup at shortstop. Except for a reversible infield feature, by which Foxx moves to third and the newcomer, Oscar Roettger, to first, the Athletics will start the 1932 season with the same lineup as in 1931.

Mack admits real fear of the Yankees, but it is difficult to see how the New Yorkers can displace the A's without big improvement in the pitching corps.

Although the rest of the American league clubs manifest improvement, especially by the Browns and White Sox, Washington is the only other one justifiably considered a pennant possibility. The Senators couldn't stand the pace last year but they have speed, pitching and defensive strength.

Cleveland Defense Weak

If Cleveland could combine its best features with those of Washington, this would be a different story. The Indians carry a real sock, which has been especially damaging to the Yankees, but their defense is spotty.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh must dream fitfully of the day when he may wake up to find himself with a shortstop like Joe Cronin.

The Browns, best of the second division clubs, have an outside chance to crash the first four, with the aid of excellent pitching and a fast, aggressive attack developed by Bill Killefer.

The Boston Red Sox, who surprised even themselves by finishing sixth last season, rely on pitching to keep them there, despite the death of big Ed Morris. To combat them, Detroit and Chicago both have conducted major shakeups.

FOUR TEAMS BEATEN IN N. C. O. TOURNEY

Caledonia, Bucyrus, Columbus, Marion Victorious in First Night Cage Clashes Here.

Four would-be winners of the North Central Ohio independent basketball crown fell by the wayside last night in the first quartet of games played in the N. C. O. tournament on the court of The Star auditorium. None of the games were particularly hard fought, all of them being more or less one-sided. The tournament will continue tonight with another four games scheduled. Tonight's games are certain to be more closely contested than those of the first night as some of the best teams in the tourney will clash in the four contests.

The Caledonia Independents took the first contest last night, sinking the Marion Athletics under a 24-13 count. Dale Baird and Brooks led the scoring attack for the Caledonia five, both accounting for six points. The Athletics were not able to get their offense clicking in very smooth fashion at any point of the game and trailed all the way. John Gillis racked up six points to lead the scoring column for the losers.

Bulldogs Win, 28-19

Reiff's Bulldogs of Bucyrus and Green Camp Baptists clashed in the second encounter and when the smoke of battle had been cleared away the Bulldogs had fought their way to a 28-19 victory. Presenting a well-balanced offense, Bucyrus jumped into a lead in the first few minutes of play and never relinquished it at any point of the game. Green Camp stayed near the winners during the first period but faltered after that and allowed Bucyrus to step out in front by a comfortable margin. A last period rally enabled Green Camp to make up much of the margin separating the two teams but Bucyrus was never in danger.

The Rexall Drugs took a 31-19 decision from the Galena Independents in the third start but did not look particularly powerful in chalking up the one-sided victory. The Marion club showed the effects of the long layoff from competition, not having played a game for more than a month. Galena put up a good fight but never came close to chalking up a victory.

Gillis Scores 10 Points

Vic Gillis and Walter Lockwood led the scoring attack of the Druggists, the former with 10 points and the latter with two less. Galena made several determined efforts to regain the lead after the Druggists had climbed into an early advantage but each time they came within striking distance the local quintet put on a scoring spurt and left the invaders trailing far behind.

The fourth game of the schedule saw the Reliable Coals of Columbus, one of the favorites to win the tournament, walk off with a 26-2 decision over the Wood's Quick Lunches of Upper Sandusky. The losers failed to score a field goal during the conflict, their two points coming from a pair of charity tosses in the first half. The coal company team shut out the losers in the final half. Upper's failure to score a point was more the result of inaccurate shooting than poor all-around play. The team missed dozens of shots, many of them from close range.

Four Tourney Games Slated for Tonight

With the first night's quota of four games out of the way, the North Central Ohio basketball tournament will swing into the second night of competition tonight on The Star auditorium court. Four more games are slated to go by the boards, three of them first round affairs and the fourth a second round battle.

The first game will see the Marion Fleetwings and Agosta Cardinals battling for victory. The game is called for 7 p. m. The second conflict will be a second round contest between Reiff's Bulldogs of Bucyrus and Rexall Drugs of Marion. Last night the Bulldogs beat Green Camp while the Druggists were downing Galena Independents.

The third game on the schedule will match the Akron DeWitt-Hall Motors against the Lima Community Laundry. This game is expected to be one of the best played games of the four scheduled for tonight inasmuch as the two contestants loom as possible winners of the tourney championship. They will meet at 8:30.

The fourth and final game, a first round conflict will match the Plain City Cubs against the Wilson A. C. five of Columbus. Both of these teams have some clever basketball artists in their lineups and another fast game is likely to result.

BATTALINO STOPPED IN BLOODY BATTLE

Billy Petrolle Slashes Former Champ for 12 Rounds, Taking Technical K. O.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—Perhaps he doesn't care for that sort of thing but it seems an undoubted injustice that Billy Petrolle never gets a whack at a fistic championship.

To his string of victories, Petrolle added another last night—a one-sided triumph over Christopher (Bat) Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., former world's featherweight champion.

Nearly 18,000 saw Petrolle cut Battalino to pieces with vicious rights and lefts that brought blood streaming from a dozen cuts, and finally stopped him after one minute and 31 seconds of the twelfth and final round.

The Hartford boy committed fistic suicide by carrying the fight to the Duluth slugger. As Battalino tore in, Billy retreated, firing damaging punches into Bat's face and body. In the third round he nailed Battalino with a smashing right that slashed the Hartford boy's nose to the bone.

GAME CHANGED

One change has been made in the playing time of the Saturday games in the N. C. O. tournament. The Reliable Coal company of Columbus was originally scheduled to play the winner of the Lima-Akron game at 10:45 Saturday morning. This game has been changed and will be played at 1:30 Saturday afternoon, making three games to be played in the afternoon.

One game will be played in the morning, matching the winner of the Agosta Cardinals-Marion Fleetwings against the Caledonia Independents.

2 Rule Changes To Affect City Softball Loops

Two important amendments have been added to the rules and regulations governing Marion softball by the city softball commission. Both of the amendments concern rules applying to contestants in the Industrial and Commercial circuits. One other change regarding eligible Little World's Series teams is now pending before the commission but final action has not been taken.

The first amendment adopted by the board is an addition to rule 30 which reads:

Each player must be a member in good standing of his club or an employer or employe of the company he represents:

The amendment reads: Any player in the Commercial or Industrial league may play with the same team as during the season of 1931 even though he is unemployed during the season of 1932, when said unemployment is due to economic conditions and providing he has not been steadily employed by another employer since the season of 1931. Each player coming under this amendment must have his particular case taken up and approved by the commission before the season gets under way.

Second Change

Rule 31 reads: As soon as a new member joins a club or a new man is employed he must be registered with the secretary of the league and then 15 days after he has registered he may be eligible to play.

The amendment reads: Any player in the Industrial or Commercial leagues may change to another team in either of the above leagues if his employment is changed before July 1, 1932, by first obtaining a "consent to release" from his original team's manager and upon written application to the commission from the manager of the team to which he wishes to transfer, accompanied by the "consent to release." If said player changes employment after July 1, 1932, he may continue to play with team he was legally registered with before July 1, 1932.

TOLEDO BALL CLUB WILL REORGANIZE

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., March 25—The way was cleared today for reorganization of the bankrupt Toledo baseball club of the American Association, to become the property of the Cleveland Americans.

Rehabilitation was authorized by Common Pleas Judge James S. Martin, who directed Al E. Reubin, receiver, to transfer assets of the defunct club to the new organization and to enter into an agreement with the Cleveland Baseball company.

George A. Tomlinson of Cleveland is to be president of the Toledo club.

PADDY MACK SIGNED TO MEET CARPENTER IN FEATURE BATTLE

Popular Nebraskan Tackles Tough Foe in Lancaster Toe Twister.

It might be a good business move for Paddy Mack, the wrestler who has won his way into the hearts of Marion grappling fans, to pack up his baggage and come to Marion to live. He seems destined to spend at least one night a week here for some time, at least as long as he continues to show the local mat enthusiasts the kind of entertainment he has been presenting for the last several weeks. Mack has been appearing regularly on the Monday night programs at the Steam Shovel gym and the oftener he comes the oftener fans call for his return again.

Next Monday night Mack will invade the confines of the Steam Shovel gym arena to oppose the rough and tough Ray Carpenter of Lancaster. What's going to happen when these two meet is somewhat of a question. The two are exponents of exactly opposite styles of wrestling.

Paddy Mack goes in for the scientific style of grappling, preferring to outsmart his opponent rather than batter him into submission with slam-bang tactics.

On the other hand, Carpenter doesn't believe in fooling around with the scientific style. Knock 'em down and drag 'em out is Carpenter's motto and he hardly ever deviates from that plan of battle. It looks like an interesting exhibition—one man using his brains, the other using his fists or anything else that happens to be handy. The age-old battle of brain vs. brawn. That's good most any time.

In the semi-final match, Pat Finnegan, the Detroit Irishman, will mix things up with Sammy Vangler, a Jewish matman from Cincinnati. Finnegan has appeared here before but Vangler is unfamiliar to local fans. If Vangler is anything like as tough as he is reputed to be, the match will develop into considerable of a battle.

The preliminary match for the Monday night card has not been arranged.

Holcomb Gets Post.

FINDLAY, O., March 25—Stuart Holcomb, captain of the 1931 Ohio State university football team, today was named athletic director of Findlay college. He succeeds Harry J. Barnhart who resigned Tuesday.

SLAYER CAUGHT AFTER 18 YEARS

A desperate drama of the Virginia mines which occurred 18 years ago has been recalled by the arrest of Frank Pauletta, at Coverdale, Pa. Pauletta, sentenced to death 18 years ago for the murder of a fellow miner, escaped on the eve of his execution and was not heard from again until his arrest a short time ago. Returned to Clarksburg, Va., Pauletta insisted he was not the wanted man, but the authorities were convinced that he was and sentenced him to death for the second time. Later Pauletta confessed. He is shown with a guard.

MILK PLAN OPPOSED

LA CROSSE, Wis.—Consumers who purchase milk in bulk from the 17 public milk stations here are circulating petitions in opposition to the plan requiring the bottling of all milk. Although the station price is six cents a quart, overmeasure brings the price down to five cents a quart. La Crosse is said to be the only city in the country in which the station system is in use.

Sketch Pal Drew Puts Youth Back into Prison

Because a cellmate in prison drew a sketch of him, A. Lee Phillips (upper right) was placed behind the bars again. Phillips gave the sketch (upper left) to Rachael Rosso (below) and she turned it over to police accusing Phillips of robbing her. Through the sketch he was caught.

* * *

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH—Two youths sat in a cell in the Western penitentiary and talked of "what used to be."

"Maybe you wouldn't believe it," said one with a wistful smile, "but I used to think I'd be an artist, studied art, worked like the devil—and then this happened."

And to prove it, he sketched a likeness of his cell mate.

Today he's sorry, because the sketch brought his pal back behind the bars.

Arthur McCleery was the artist. A. Lee Phillips posed for the picture.

And when Phillips was free again, he met Rachael Rosso, waitress, and gave the picture to her.

Shortly, as he thought, told the next chapter of the story of the picture:

"He robbed me of $100, took jewelry from me and gave me a bad check. I handed the picture over to the police and they had copies made and sent it to police in other cities."

Identified by the sketch, Phillips was arrested in Cleveland, and returned to Pittsburgh. He admitted the picture was his.

And McCleery, complimented by police on his art, shakes his head.

"I practice a lot while I'm in here and sometimes I think my work is improving," he said. "When I get out, I hope to make my living that way. But believe me, that's one picture I'm sorry I drew."

PATTERN 2303

Step-by-Step Instruction Diagrams Given with This Pattern.

A most becoming neckline with the new square effect has a smart scarf collar that puts through slashes in the bodice, forming a part bow. It is the very last word in fashion. The sleeves, too, are lovely, and may be worn above or below the elbow as sketched. Elastic holds them in place. This model is charming in printed flat or sheer crepe, with contrasting trimming.

Pattern 2303 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 3 ¼ yards of 39-inch fabric, ⅛ yard 39-inch contrasting, or 1¾ yards of ribbon.
